“The idea of a right to privacy […] has evolved into a constitutional right in much of the developed world. Hong Kong stands proud as the first jurisdiction in Asia to enact legislation to safeguard personal data in the form of the Personal Data (Privacy) Ordinance.”

Data privacy laws are having to adapt rapidly to keep up with the age of information and the ease with which personal data can be accessed and disseminated. With fines based now on accountability, it is in the best interest of all individuals, companies and corporations to understand the full scope of the Personal Data (Privacy) Ordinance.

This edition comes straight from the Office of the Privacy Commissioner for Personal Data. Updated from the last edition, this includes not only a full discussion of these principles, but also summaries of all the seminal cases and Administrative Appeals Board rulings in this area, as well as a comprehensive list of all the pertinent cases.

Edited by Stephen Kai-yi WONG, Privacy Commissioner for Personal Data, Hong Kong, and Guobin Zhu, Professor at Law
